

Martin F. Bachmann

Martin F. Bachmann has been Chief Scientific Officer of Cytos Biotechnology AG since October 1999. He received his Ph.D. in molecular biology in 1995 at the Institute for Experimental Immunology, Zurich, Switzerland, in the laboratories of Zinkernagel and Hengartner. He joined Cytos Biotechnology after being a member of the Basel Institute for Immunology. His main research interest is in understanding the rules that govern the induction of protective immune responses and how these insights translate into the development of optimized vaccine strategies. He received the Pfizer Prize for Immunology (Switzerland), two silver medals of the Swiss federal Institute of Technology and the Swiss technology award. He has more than 150 publications in peer reviewed journals.